The 21st Century is a challenging era. The advancement of digital transformation, artificial intelligence, big data analytics, and more have fundamentally changed our lives. Because of the complexity we are facing, gone are the days where one individual makes most of the organisation's decisions. The COVID-19 pandemic accelerates uncertainties.

Everything rises and falls on leadership (John Maxwell). To handle the challenges today, leaders need to understand the value of their followers. Leaders who can inspire and unleash the potential of their followers will be in a better position to handle the challenges today and build a sustainable competitive advantage for their organisations.

This one-hour Transformative Servant Leadership programme is the leadership paradigm for today's challenging environment while focusing on its essence and the importance of the paradigm.
